MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR

Over the past nine months, City employees have worked on projects and services that support residents and help Vineyard move in the right direction. I'm proud of what our teams have accomplished, and grateful to residents who share feedback, attend events, and take part in City programs. We have a lot to report on.

Recently, Public Works completed the remediation work required by the Utah Division of Environmental Quality audit and is working to finish Vineyard's vital road and infrastructure projects before winter. When the Center Street Bridge recently needed repairs, the original contractor completed the work under warranty, saving the City about $13,500.

Last month, City Attorney Jesse Riddle, Councilmember Jacob Wood, and the Public Works team helped complete the significant work of renegotiating the Cadence and Goodboro development agreement. Reaching the agreement required compromises on both sides. Under the amended agreement, the City is projected to collect approximately $1.3 million in additional impact fees. The developer will also pay applicable pass-through fees to third-party agencies, including the Central Utah Water Conservancy District. The agreement preserves several historic structures for inclusion in a future heritage park.

Construction projects continue across the City, and we know there are real concerns about pedestrian safety, particularly near schools, parks, neighborhoods, and some of our busiest intersections. For real-time project updates, visit the new Transparency Portal on the City's website. We want to make sure residents are aware of what is happening and the work that has been underway since the beginning of the year.

Emergency access is part of the coordination surrounding these construction projects. City staff has been in regular communication with Orem Fire and EMS about road closures, construction schedules, and access points so emergency responders have the information they need. It is important to note that a road closed to the general public is not necessarily closed to emergency vehicles. In many cases, fire, ambulance, and other emergency responders can still access a roadway or construction area when needed.

You may have heard about the recent incident on Center Street, where a young child was struck by a car while crossing the street. We take pedestrian safety seriously. Since January, the City has worked on several projects to create safer street crossings and environments for pedestrians. Following the incident earlier this month, we worked with the Vineyard Sheriff's Office and Public Works to install permanent and temporary signs along Center Street to support safety.

We also ask drivers to stay alert, even when children aren't immediately visible. Please use extra caution, obey speed limits, and watch for stop signs. Children can enter the roadway unexpectedly, and careful driving helps protect everyone.

Parents, please talk with your children about crossing streets safely. Remind them to stay alert, wear a helmet, and use caution when riding hoverboards, bikes, and other electric transportation.

You can find a list of the City's road projects and the steps we're taking to support pedestrian safety on our city's website. We appreciate your patience with temporary closures and changing traffic patterns, and we'll continue sharing updates as details are confirmed.

Code Enforcement has made significant progress addressing illegal short-term rentals. More than 20 were shut down over the past three months, including three in one week. The City has also worked with Vrbo and Airbnb to remove nearly all noncompliant listings.

If you see something, say something. Much of this progress is possible because residents report parking and over-occupancy concerns and are willing to help. Your reports help the City respond to issues that affect neighborhood safety and quality of life.

Parks & Recreation and our Special Events team have seen growing community gatherings and strong participation, from race days and soccer games to Vineyard Days. Resident feedback is also helping shape significant changes coming to Rendezvous Park. Thank you to everyone who shared ideas and helped guide its future.

Councilmember David Lauret and Parker McCumber worked with my office to bring two talented directors to Vineyard's Redevelopment Agency (RDA), adding valuable experience and perspective to its work. Steven A. Proud, who has served as economic development director in Redondo Beach, California, and San Francisco, will guide the RDA's economic development efforts. Rob Sant, president of a Utah-based economic development consulting firm with 14 years of experience in community reinvestment, will support the agency's financial planning and projections. We are very grateful to have them on board.

Our Communications Team, in partnership with the City Recorder's Office, recently launched a new Transparency Portal. It provides quick access to the latest City news, data, decisions, agendas, meeting information and more, helping you stay informed about what is happening in Vineyard.

Last month Councilmember Parker McCumber revisited the budget reducing the City spending again by approximately $245,000 with the help of City Council and staff. I appreciate the work of City employees and the Council in stewarding public resources.

All of these accomplishments are made possible by the hard work of many people across Vineyard. Thank you to our City Council members, commissioners, City employees, community partners, and residents for helping make progress possible.

– Mayor Zack Stratton

NEIGHBORHOOD IMPROVEMENT

CONTACT VINEYARD CODE ENFORCEMENT

Ed Kennedy is a retired police officer and Vineyard's Code Enforcement Officer, part of Vineyard's new Neighborhood Improvement efforts. He helps address neighborhood parking and over-occupancy concerns, and connects residents with the appropriate City departments to keep Vineyard looking its best and running smoothly.

If you have questions about City code requirements or would like to report a potential code violation, please email, text, or call Vineyard City's Code Enforcement Officer, Ed Kennedy, at edk@vineyardutah.gov or 385-307-3828.

Our goal is to work with residents to improve safety, provide information, and strengthen neighborhoods through education and cooperation whenever possible.

If you notice a streetlight outage, pothole, signage issue, property concern, or other issue that needs attention, submit an anonymous 'Report a Concern' through vineyardutah.gov.
