GET TO KNOW VINEYARD'S ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT

Vineyard City's Engineering Department is dedicated to helping protect the health and safety of Vineyard's residents and enhancing their quality of life through a full spectrum of services.

These services include developing and enforcing infrastructure construction standards for roads, sidewalks, underground pipes; conducting inspections on private developments such as new neighborhoods; and managing the public projects like the Vineyard Connector extension and the Frontrunner Station...which is scheduled to open this April!

Vineyard City's Engineering Department staff includes a licensed engineer and certified stormwater professionals

Naseem Ghandour, City Engineer, is a licensed Utah professional engineer, certified in construction, and OSHA construction safety trainer with 18-years of experience in the private, public, and federal government sectors. Naseem is directly responsible for oversight of all engineering projects within the City's jurisdiction, which includes establishing standards, coordinating with other government agencies, and the private developers. Justine Marshall, City's stormwater manager handles the city's entire municipal separate stormwater system (MS4) permit with the state for stormwater quality compliance, she is a certified stormwater inspector and with 8-years of experience in the pollution prevention programs having worked for private companies and other cities. Additionally, the department has an infrastructure inspector with over 20-years of experience, having constructed and maintained public roads and underground infrastructure systems, who consistently visits active construction sites to ensure that they are building per the City's standards and are maintaining a safe environment for our residents.

Vineyard City's engineering department staff is here to serve residents

While we can not perform professional engineering services for our residents, we provide several consulting levels of services. These services include ways to reduce stormwater pollution impacts while saving money on your home, assisting on cost effective low-impact development, yard grading and landscaping that would not impact your neighbors, reviewing industry standards for residential projects like driveways, and providing public education and participation opportunities. Feel free to reach out at engineering@vineyardutah.org , call 801-226-1929 extension 1201 or visit us at the City Hall building in the basement level, during regular business hours.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE RESOURCES

If you experience any danger in your household, and it's an emergency, call 911. If it's not an emergency and you need help, call non-emergency dispatch at 801-794-3970 to speak with a deputy.

Our community has several resources you can use. The following are just two available:

OUR HERITAGE

BEET FUN BEATS NO FUN

Harvesting beats could be backbreaking work for the early farmers in Vineyard, so who could blame the young people for creating some fun? Barbara Harding Packard remembered one step in the harvest required workers to take a beet, cut off its top, and toss it into a wagon. Sometimes the beet would accidentally sail across the wagon and land on the other side, where another worker would return it to the wagon. One time, Boyd or Alvin, or both, intentionally threw a beet over the wagon and hit their uncle on the head. The uncle, and the youngsters' dad, were really angry and severely chastised the young workers, who tried not to smile but to look repentant.

EVERYDAY STRONG

"I can be creative to get my needs met." At EveryDay Strong, we talk a lot about figuring out what our child needs. Do they need more sleep, do they need me to spend more time with them, do they need me to teach them a new skill? There are so many needs our child has. When was the last time you got really strategic about getting your needs met? When was the last time you took your own needs seriously? I know, I know. You often simply don't have the time to get a nap in. Meeting up with friends to care for your need for connection feels like one more thing on your to-do list, not a joyful activity.

But here's the question I want you to ponder: are you not taking that nap because you really, truly don't have time--or because deep down you secretly believe that everyone else's needs are more important than your own? Are you not going out with friends because it really does feel like a drag--or because secretly you feel like if you don't get everything done on your to-do list, you're going to be letting people down? Where can you be a little bit kinder to yourself? Where can you get creative and strategic about getting your needs met? Your needs matter. Caring for yourself matters. You matter.

TIPS TO SAFELY SHARE UTAH WITH OUR WILDLIFE:

Never approach or try to touch wildlife. Never feed wildlife.

Remove attractants from your property, including pet food, water sources, bird feeders and fallen fruit.

Always hike, jog or bike with a companion; make noise to alert wildlife of your presence.

Never leave children or pets unattended. Keep dogs leashed, especially when on trails.

Secure trash in a locked receptacle. Contain pets and livestock at night.

Trim vegetation around your property, and close off crawl spaces to reduce hiding places.

Keep a clean, odor free campsite. Educate your neighbors and family about wildlife conflict prevention.

Veterans RESOURCES

As a country, city and, as individuals, it is important for us to honor the heroes who make our world better. As a nation, there's no one more deserving of our gratitude and respect than those who have served in the military.

For the brave men and women who have served in the armed forces, we can all do our own singular part to recognize these shining examples of patriotism as well. Taking the time to give a heartfelt, genuine "thank you" is always an appropriate gesture toward former/retired and active military personnel. The City of Vineyard has recognized the veterans who work for the city and will continue to do so. We are committed to serve/recognize the veterans who have chosen to reside in our fair city. It's about making sure they have the benefits that they earned and the care they need. It's about serving all of you as well as you served the United States of America.

So, for those veterans that might be unaware, the V.A. has opened a service center on 774 South State Street in Orem to the west of the Sierra Theater. This a primary care clinic with family and internal medicine services. It is open from 0800 to 1630 Monday – Friday. This is much more convenient than driving to SLC Reginal Hospital. Along those same lines, the SLC VA Reginal Office now offers VERA (Visitor Engagement Reporting Portal App), a self-service portal for schedule, reschedule, cancel in-person or virtual appointments and to answer other questions. It is hoped that this system will reduce the scheduling problems of the past. You can use this service here.

MORE THAN A FLAG

What do you think makes Utah, Utah? Designing a new state flag offers Utahns the chance to talk about who we are now. It's a chance to talk about the symbols and colors that represent our shared identity. Together, we can design a 21st-century flag to represent a 21st-century state because our shared identity truly is More Than A Flag.
